The World/The United Kingdom

Kate Ruttle/Kate Ruttle

Key text features

Both of the texts are non-chronological report information texts linked to the geography curriculum.

- The Teaching text is about the world
- The Practice text is about the United Kingdom

Reading the Teaching text: The World

- Introduce the text by asking the children what they remember about continents and oceans.
- Talk about the title of the text. What do they think it will be about?
- Read the text to them and ask them if they think their predictions were accurate.

Reading the Practice text: The United Kingdom

- Introduce the text by asking the children what they remember about the UK.
- Once they have read the text, remind the children that they are now going to work independently to practise the strategies introduced during the teaching session.

Moving into writing

- Give each group of children a different country to study and ask them to work in pairs to find interesting things out about their country. Focus on countries which are linked, or which can provide a contrasting location, to your current geography focus.
- Ask each pair to explain what they found out to their group.
- Revisit one of the model texts and discuss its layout.
- Ask children to organise information under headings and to talk through a text.
- Alternatively let each group create a presentation using features of your IWB, PowerPoint or any software presentation package. Ask each child to contribute to a page and to orally deliver part of the presentation.

Listening Comprehension: Questions and Answers

Q1: What does this text say a sea is?

A1: Parts of the oceans which are near to land.

Strategy: Listen carefully for the word 'sea'. Think about the information you are given immediately after you first hear the word.

Q2: Which are the two coldest oceans?

A2: The Arctic Ocean and the Southern Ocean.

Strategy: Listen to the part of the text under the heading 'Oceans'. You might want to jot down the names you hear.

Q3: Why do you think this text has a glossary?

A3 To explain the meaning of some of the words people may not know and understand.

Strategy: Listen to the whole text, considering the question. Think about what you already know about glossaries. Does that help you to answer the question?

The United Kingdom

1 The United Kingdom is also called the UK and it is made up of four different countries: England, Northern Ireland, Scotland and Wales. Southern Ireland is a different country. Each of the countries in the UK has many of its own laws, made by its own parliament, but they also share some of their laws.

7 Capital cities

Each of the four countries has its own capital city which is where its parliament is. London is the capital city in England, Edinburgh is the capital of Scotland, Belfast is the capital of Northern Ireland and Cardiff is the Welsh capital city. London is the capital city for the UK because that is where the UK parliament makes the shared laws as well as the English laws.

15 Language

The English language is spoken throughout the UK and all of the laws in each of the countries are written in English. However, even in England, not everyone speaks English. Many people in Cornwall, in the south-west of England, speak an old language called Cornish. Some people in Wales, Scotland and Northern Ireland also speak a language that was spoken in those countries before English became the main language. Many people in Wales speak the Welsh language, and it is taught in Welsh schools for those who only speak English. Away from the big cities, in the north of Scotland and in the mountains and the islands, people often speak the old Scottish language called Gaelic. Scottish Gaelic is different from the Irish Gaelic which is still spoken in parts of Northern Ireland, although more people in Northern Ireland speak Irish.

25 Countryside

Although there are cities in all of the countries in the UK, there is also a lot of countryside. All the countries have areas with hills and mountains, they all have forests, farming land, rivers and coasts. They all have areas of countryside which are very beautiful.

29 Weather

All of the countries in the UK have the same four seasons: spring, summer, autumn and winter but the countries have slightly different weather. Scotland is further north than England, so it is usually a bit colder and the Scottish cities and mountains have more snow in winter than the English, Welsh and Northern Irish cities and mountains. Wales and Northern Ireland are in the west of the UK and those places usually have more rain than places in the east of the UK.

35 Islands

All of the countries of the UK have some smaller islands which are separated from the mainland by a short distance of sea. People go to the islands for holidays because most islands are peaceful and they have good beaches that people enjoy exploring.

Glossary

City- a place with a lot of buildings where people live and work.

Coast- where the land and sea meet.

Country- cities, towns and countryside which share laws and a government.

Laws- the rules for a country that people have to obey.

Parliament- the place where laws are made.
